ened together "Again Mr. Redmond retired behind the screen, and that instant the ropes round his wrists fell away and was free. Manifestly he had slipped his hands through them. Mr. Redmond retired again behind the screen with the ropes. In about four, or at most five minutes he called for the screen to be removed. That was done, and he was seen bound in the most extraordinary manner, legs, arms, body and wrist; being literally swathed in the rope. The gentleman who had tied him previously were invited to untie him, and attempted to do so, but failed utterly. Apparently it would have required hours for unaccustomed fingers to accomplish the task. The knots utterly baffled all attempts at their unravelment. At last the task was given up in despair. The screen was again put round Mr. Redmond. and in about three minutes he stepped forth unbound with the rope free from knots in his hand. He seemed much exhausted, perspiration streamed down his face, and has breathing was much accelerated. In answer to questions, he said the tricks required great strength for their accomplishment." Sound and Fury in our Homes .- There are abodes made daily to resound with quarreling and scelding; there are families where mother and children all talk in loud, angry tones. Escaping from such "the solitary" may well bless God for his own lot, which when viewed in the warm, loving light of a wellordered and happy home, sometimes seems almost intolerable. Ye sad, lonely maidens; ye sour, fretful bachelors, when your desolation becomes too great a burden for you to bear, just go for a two days' visit to the family of "the brawling woman," and you will be, for the time, cured. Your silent, lonely room will be as a harbor of refuge for you during many subsequent days. If wives and mothers could but realize what they are doing when they begin the loud-voiced scolding system, how quickly they would desist. But there must be authority and punishment in the family; and there is in many cases nothing so good as the red. Mothers, do the little children swarm about you, and weary you by their wants and their ways! Try for one year the virtue of low, mild tones, decided measures, and in case of intentional naughtiness, the rod; and if at the end of the year you are not satisfied that this is not the best course, break the rod and depend for discipline on scolding and loud threats never made good. Children imitate as readily as do monkeys, and if the mother's voice is loud and harsh, their's will probably be the same; if her ways are rough with them, their's will be so with each other, and their homes will be a place from which we shall be only too happy to escape.

HANDS ON BOSOMS .- A mischievous Yankee one day stopped before a shirt manufactory, and read on a card, hanging outside : "Hands on Bosoms Wanted." He stepped inside, asked to see the "boss," which individual being brought before him, he innocently inquired whether they wanted hands on bosoms. "We do, sir," was the curt reply. "Then I'm your man: trot out your females, and I'll take my pick." "There seems to be some misunderstanding here," remarked the proprietor. "Not to my thinking," replied the Yankee "you want hands on bosoms, eh?" "We do." "Very good, you see them hands!" said Yank, holding forth his two, which were more remarkable for size than cleanliness. "I see them, certainly "said the shirt merchant, not comprehending the other's meaning. "Good again," said Yank. "The hands are here; now all we want is the bosoms to put the hands on. So please jest trot out the feminines, and we'll probably make a trade." The merchant explained the meaning of the sign, and the Yankee left, amid the merriment of some three or four clerks. The proprietor took in his sign soon after, and when he hung it out again, it read thus: "Wanted, good shirt bosom

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE -On Saturday last, about noon, as Mr. John D. Delozier, residing upon the road leading from this place to Pomfret Church, was seated at table with his family, the house was found to be on fire. Mrs. Delozier im mediately rushed up stairs to save some money, when suddenly the room she had entered was enveloped in flame and smoke. Upon being told that his wife had undoubtedly perished in the flames, Mr. Delozier suddenly fell, struck. it is supposed with paralysis of the heart. His wife who had escaped by leaping from the window, reached the spot just in time to witness the last gap of her husband. Mr. Delozier at the time of his death was about seventy years of age. Mrs. Delozier has a family of five small children, and by this sad and melancholy event is left entirely destitute. A subscription for her relief was immediately gotten up and has been liberally subscribed to by our citizens, the fund yesterday amounting to over three hundred dollars .- Port Tobacce Times, Nov. 17.

Jeff Davis reports his Treasury full and asks no appropriations. Gus Henry says the soldiers have not been paid for fifteen months. And Mr. Trenholm, announces that the money in his exchequer is worth "only six cents on the dollar." "Mein Got, vat a country!" The debt of the Canadian Confederation will be little over $100,000,000.
